DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-13, 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1 and 10, the amended language refers to the "heat conduction" part as the "heat conductor" part.

In addition, as stated in the previous action, hereby incorporated by reference, the structural distinction between the heat conducting part and the signal transmission part is unclear. The recitation that the heat conduction part extends toward an upper layer side fails to clearly define where this heat conduction part originates from. Extending from where?

In view of the fact that, as shown in applicant's FIG. 2 embodiment which applicant references in his remarks, both the heat conducting part and the signal transmission part are formed of the same material, and as recited in claim 6, the heat conduction part may actually form part of the signal transmission part connected to a gate electrode, it becomes unclear how these parts are structurally distinguished from each other.

Consequently, the amended language reciting that the heat conducting part includes one metal wiring not being for signal transmission, is also unclear. Does this mean that there are plural structures which have no connection to each other? And, if so, how is this recitation reconciled with the structure shown in FIG. 2 of the instant application where it appears that the layers, e.g. M3 through M6, are common to each other?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-13, 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yamazaki et al, of record, for the reasons stated in the previous action, hereby incorporated by reference. Because the claims have not completely ruled out the possibility that the signal transmission part and the heat conduction part may be commonly formed, it appears that Yamazaki continues to anticipates the claimed structure, especially given the fact that any wiring layers will inherently provide some heat dissipation, and the fact that some of applicant's embodiments does not require that the heat conduction layers are even exposed to the outside environment via an aperture.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
